

5. South Africans should all embrace and stand for the sanctity of all human life. Why? What's the devil and the demons' view of the sanctity of human life? What does such a stance look like when considering the outcasts, and even the criminals of society?

6. When people are changed by God, transformed by the gospel, and put into their right minds, it does not necessarily follow that their circumstances will immediately change, and certainly we know that their history doesn't change. So how has God made provision to care for these new converts? How can someone be relieved of their shameful past? What is your role in this?

7. South Africa's greatest need, like this demoniac's, is restoration by the gospel. A Christian's greatest privilege is that they have been restored by the gospel. What's the link between this need and this privilege? What is your responsibility in making this link? What are the practical things you can do, other than praying with fellow Christians (Saturday, 27 October 09:00–13:00), to see such gospel restoration?
